A Personal Commitment to National Service Through Art

This project holds a deep personal significance for me, paralleling the sense of duty that drives the characters in our narrative. As a filmmaker, I see this campaign as my own way of serving my country—by crafting a message that has the power to influence and inspire the next generation of defenders. I approach this campaign not just as a professional challenge, but as a personal commitment to contribute to our national narrative. Through this work, I aim to ignite a sense of pride and potential in young Bulgarians, showing them that their participation in military service is not only about personal growth but also about contributing to the larger story of our nation.

Sincerely,
